Boston's Copley Square Hotel Reopens

March 13, 2009

Following a $17 million restoration, the 4-star Copley Square Hotel has reopened in Boston's Back Bay. The boutique hotel, built in 1891, now features a martini lounge and XHALE, a casual-dining concept. The sleek lobby is outfitted with metallic accessories, including silver light fixtures, candle niches, and window treatments with a metallic sheen. The 143 redesigned guestrooms, meanwhile, offer a selection of sophisticated fabrics and textures in a palette of champagne, cream, chocolate, taupe, and heather gray.
